Stéphane's practice is focused on class actions, construction and product liability.

In class actions, Stéphane appeared before every court including the Supreme Court. In 2022, he appeared four times as lead counsel before the Court of Appeal. In all four of these cases, the Court of Appeal dismissed the Class Action.

His construction experience includes legal hypothecs, sureties, calls for tenders and all aspects of claims by contractors. Stéphane represents and advises owners, contractors, subcontractors, insurers and bonding companies with regard to all aspects of the construction industry. He has managed an important number of major claims for contractors in the province of Québec and was a key player in the Kiewit v. Hydro-Québec file.

Stéphane also has experience in issues relating to private international law. He has pleaded several cases regarding the jurisdiction of Québec authorities. He has appeared as counsel in all levels of court, including the Supreme Court of Canada.
