Neil recently retired from senior counsel. Prior to his retirement, Neil's practice primarily focused on oil and gas, energy and litigation. With a wealth of insight into Alberta's regulatory regime, he provided strategic advice on major provincial energy projects, including northern development and the oil sands and electricity generation and transmission.

Neil served as Alberta's Deputy Justice Minister from 1989 to 1998 before chairing the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board from 1998 until 2007. Since then, he has served both provincial and federal governments in different advisory capacities.

Neil was also involved in BLG's Team North® Initiative.

We thank Neil for his contribution to the firm, and wish him all the best in the future.
